

World Trade Up by 22% in the 1st Quarter of this Year

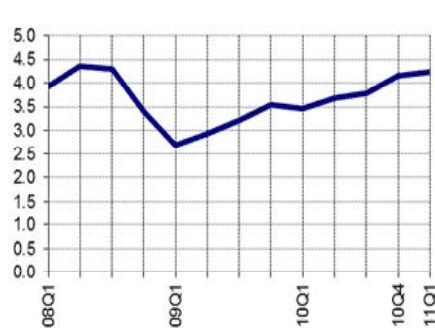

The value of world merchandise trade was 22% higher in the first quarter of 2011 compared to the same period of 2010, according to WTO figures released on 1 June 2011.

These short-term “value” figures should not be confused with the annual trade growth figures headlined in the 7 April 2011 press release, which are “volume” data using “constant dollars” with inflation taken into account.

Moreover, WTO short-term merchandise trade values are not seasonally adjusted. Seasonal patterns therefore considerably affect the quarter on quarter (Q-o-Q) and month on month (M-o-M) developments in world trade, and this in turn affects comparisons between the trade developments in individual regions and economies.

Available monthly statistics for about 70 economies representing more than 90% of world trade show that merchandise trade rose sharply in March 2011, reflecting in good part seasonal variations. The value of trade reached for the first time a level superior to the pre-crisis maximum of July 2008.

for land and water, and creeping climate change." The poorest people of the world, who spend more than 80 percent of their income, will be the hardest hit, Oxfam says. The development-focussed NGO says policy changes, such as limiting speculation on food commodities and scrapping support for biofuels made from food crops, will help combat the problem.

Euro Hits One-Month High

The euro touched a month high versus the dollar on prospects officials from the European Union will reiterate their intention to prepare a new aid package for Greece, easing concern over the region's debt crisis.

Demand for the single currency was supported before a report that may show producer-price inflation in the trading bloc held near a 2-1/2 year high in April, backing the case for the European Central Bank to increase borrowing costs. The dollar traded 0.3 percent from a one-month low versus the yen as signs of moderating U.S. growth add to the case for the Federal Reserve to keep interest rates near zero.

The euro climbed as high as $1.4658, the strongest since May 5, before trading at $1.4639 from $1.4635 in New York on June 3. The 17-nation currency was at 117.51 yen from 117.48. The dollar bought 80.27 yen from 80.34 yen last week, when it touched 80.05, the weakest since May 5.

The euro was the biggest winner last week against nine other currencies of developed nations measured by the Bloomberg Correlation-Weighted Indexes. It rose 1.6 percent, followed by a 1.2 percent gain in the Swiss franc and a 1.1 percent advance in the Norwegian krone.

DEPB Extension under Discussion with Fin Min, says Sharma

Commerce Minister Anand Sharma said that the issue of extension of DEPB and re-introduction of interest subvention is being discussed with the Finance Minister and he assured the exporter that their concern will be adequately addressed.

Commerce Minister announced that from today zonal office of DGFT will provide time bound clearances and this will be quarterly audited. Mr Sharma said that he is attempting discharge of Export Obligation electronically so that voluminous document and delays are eliminated. Mr Anand Sharma said that he will review the delays in imposition of provisional anti dumping duty so that the same can be imposed in reasonable time compared with best practices. For providing commercial information to Indian exporter, Mr Sharma agreed to strengthen commercial Missions abroad and open more such missions. Mr Sharma said that new manufacturing policy shall be announced shortly aiming to increase share of manufacturing in GDP from 16% to 25%.

Russia, Ukraine may Open Wheat Exports

Moscow on Saturday announced that Russia would resume exporting wheat on 1 July, prompting a 4.6 percent fall in the global futures price for the commodity. In August 2010, Russia - the world's number three wheat producer - implemented an export ban on the commodity due to record low harvests resulting from severe drought.

Russian wheat exports for the 2009-2010 season were an estimated 18.5 million tonnes and Viktor Zubkov, Russia's deputy prime minister, said this year's exports could be as high as 15 million tonnes.

In addition to Russia's move, Ukraine announced it will lift wheat export quotas that were put into place a year ago and have had a significant impact on exports. However, the country is planning to implement a new regime of export duties up until 2012, meaning the positive impacts on wheat exports may be modest.

Wheat supplies are short and prices high this year due to unfavourable weather conditions in some of the main producers for the world market, including France and the US. But while Moscow's move will allow more wheat to enter the global market, the bulk of the exports will mainly consist of feed-grade wheat flowing to Asian importers, such as Indonesia, and Japan. Thus, supply of high-grade wheat used for pasta, bread, and other products destined for human consumption may not be significantly offset.

Food security experts say export restrictions contribute to price spikes and have argued for the need to restrict these and other measures on key commodities in order to tackle related problems. In the context of the flagging Doha round of the WTO, a group of net food importing countries (NFIDCs) have made a proposal to ban export curbs that negatively affect NFIDCs and least-developed countries.

According to the proposal, "export restrictions play a major role in fuelling soaring international food prices" and the food price increases "aggravate poverty levels and seriously threaten NFIDCs' food security." G20 agriculture ministers will address food security, including the role of export restrictions in this context, at a meeting from 22-23 June.

Overall, food prices remain at historical highs, despite an apparent levelling off and even some minor price decreases in May. For wheat, prices are 75 percent higher than they were a year ago.

According to a new report by Oxfam International, food prices will likely double over the next 20 years due to "rising food price inflation and oil price hikes fuelled by speculators, scrambles

Declaration of Intent Mandatory on Free Shipping Bills for Claiming Reward Scheme Chapter 3

Subject: Clarification about requirement of "Declaration of Intent" on Free Shipping Bills for claiming Chapter 3 scheme benefits.

32-Pol.Cir Para 3.11.8 of HBPV1 2009-14 (earlier Para 3.23.8 in 03.06.2011 RE-2008) provides for "Declaration of Intent" to be (DGFT) made on "free shipping bills" in order to claim Chapter 3 benefits.

2. It is clarified that "Declaration of Intent" needs to be mentioned mandatorily on the free shipping bills for claiming Chapter 3 benefits. This declaration can be made in the product description column in the free shipping bills where sufficient space is available for this purpose. Instances have also been reported where free shipping bills bear only the name of the Chapter 3 scheme like FPS, FMS etc or the intention to claim Chapter 3 benefit has been mentioned manually on the shipping bills duly attested by customs. In such cases RA's will accept these shipping bills for grant of Chapter 3 benefits.

3. The "Declaration of Intent" would not be required for shipments filed under chapter 4 (including drawback), chapter 5 or chapter 6 of FTP.

4. All RAs to take suitable action accordingly.

5. This issues with approval of DGFT.

President FIEO raised concern on the delays and paperwork involved in closure of advance authorization at DGFT and same procedure should be followed at Customs.

FIEO President asked the Government to implement full EDI connectivity amongst the agencies involved in Import/Exports for a seamless movement of cargo which can only help in reducing transaction time and cost to a large extent.
